Seems The Guide Dog's future is assured: FOCSLE Music has been able to reconvene. Still in doubt, though, is if enough of our former supporters will be OK sitting – and singing – as close-up as previously.

The Wellington Arms, across town, has a larger space, and an existing live music ethos. Its not being 100% reserved for us is a downer, but it serves most of our purposes, and the more understanding guests will accommodate that blip.

One fixed point, as of now, is that we'll have to run on both TUESDAYs and WEDNESDAYs. We'll keep the Weds. online alternative on dates we don't meet 'live', for as long as musicians keep turning up. Testing the water: hybrid formats, flexi-schedules, etc., will be the order of the day, until the health picture clarifies enough for us to attract reliable in-person audience-sizes.

Many relaunching clubs won't have this dual-night option: their virtual club replaced their real meet-night, so their cyber-singers may be seeking out stuff online. As one of few left, we may mop them up
